By maintaining a comprehensive record of your personal affairs, you can keep important information available for easy access. In time of emergency, it is important that you, and your family, be able to take immediate action with regard to financial affairs.

Also, an inventory is invaluable when death occurs.

This booklet can be as comprehensive as your deem necessary.

Advise family members of this record, and where it is kept.

A once-a-year update is advised.

IMPORTANCE OF LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

The information you enter in this book will be of value to family and personal representatives in the event of your death. It will not, however, determine the disposition of your property. Only your Last Will and Testament can do that. If you do not have a Will, you may wish to consult your attorney and arrange to prepare one.

LIVING WILL INFORMATION
The law pertaining to Living Wills, Act 169 of 2006, was updated in 2006 and provides for implementation of a Living Will, which details the wishes of a person pertaining to the extent of life preserving efforts he or she wants extended in the event of terminal illness or complete incapacity. If you have made a decision on this matter, it is important that your wishes be put in writing. Because of the complexities of this issue, it is wise to consult an attorney on the matter of a Living Will.
